

I value my privacy. Unsolicited telephone calls is an invasion of my privacy. Since I have the right to remove my e-mail address from unsolicited vendors, etc., I retain the right to do the same regarding the telephone. I pay for telephone service; therefore, I should have the right to say how I will use the telephone within established laws and acceptable social mores. Briefly stated, I do not want to receive unsolicited business phone calls.